Noam Wolf – New Hampshire's new shlichah

Betenu joins the entire New Hampshire Jewish community in welcoming Noam Wolf as the shlichah (Israeli emissary) of the Jewish Federation of New Hampshire.

In addition to a vibrant personality and bilingual sense of humor (her English is excellent!), Noam will use her skills as a professional musician to engage the New Hampshire Jewish community. She brought her guitar and also plays piano and percussion and sings, including her own compositions.

In early days here, Noam enjoyed seeing rain in August, which doesn't happen in Israel, and starting to visit communities as diverse as Derry and Bethlehem. She looks forward to a winter of SNOW!

Noam is settling in and getting her schedule set, and we hope to host her at Betenu soon. Keep an eye out for announcements. And if you have questions about any aspect of life in Israel or ideas for a program with Noam, please contact Betenu.
