Rabbi's Message: March 2012 –A-dar 5772

Volume 29; No. 4

Subject: The Boundaries of Civilization

Perhaps the greatest cornerstone of Judaism is the sanctity of life. As a Jew, in addition to life, I also respect other people's property, social supports, and religion. But life is far more sacred than property, even than sacred books.

In America, where freedom is so valued, our rights have been protected. If someone does not live by these standards, we put them in jail, because their being part of our society is deemed to be an intolerable danger.

Our sacred books and Sifrei Torah have been desecrated at times. We might feel some sense of hurt, rage, violation and despair, and we do ask for justice in return. The same goes for Christians whom I have encountered in my lifetime whose books and Bibles have been thrown out or desecrated.

Jewish "holy books" that are distributed to the less knowledgeable public, often include a warning, "Holy Book, please discard appropriately". But no one terrorizes or murders the person if the owner of the book or document happens to ignore the warning.

The Korans burnt in Afghanistan in February of this year were sacred Muslim texts. They had already been desecrated by Muslims with anti-American and extremist slogans. And, they were the property of the United States. As of this date, between 10 to 15 people have been shot or killed in riots. This is not the first time people have been killed in similar circumstances. Killing or terrorizing people in the name of one's spiritual path is the antithesis of Judaism.

Can you imagine the absurdity of me destroying my personal property and having one group of people murder another group of people who didn't even have anything to do with the property destruction? And the United States government is apologizing for this? Are we crazy?

Write your Congressman and let him know that murderous behavior by Islamists hidden under the label of "political correctness" is unacceptable in the United States and to put the world community on notice, that extremism (and terrorism), under the label of the "practices of a religious community" is unacceptable.

Le-sha-lom,

UPCOMING EVENTS:

Shoah (Holocaust) Seminar

Congregation Betenu in Amherst, NH

Have you ever wondered? Why did the Nazis want to kill the Jews in particular? How did people become mass murderers during the Shoah? What were the dilemmas facing the Jewish leadership during the Shoah? How did the local population respond to the murder of the Jews? Why didn't the Allies bomb Auschwitz? How did Christian denominations respond to the Shoah? Where was G-d during the Shoah? Has the world recovered from the trauma of the Shoah? Is anti-Semitism an eternal phenomenon?

You are invited to participate in a Shoah seminar for adults. Each weekly meeting will address one or two key questions raised by the Holocaust. Participants will share their own responses and study those of leading teachers, religious figures, philosophers, historians, and survivors to each question. Group discussion will alternate with havruta (pair work) study of relevant texts. No prerequisite background or homework will be required, though supplementary sources will be available.

There will be ten meetings on Thursday evenings in February and March 22nd in 2012. Each session will stand alone; you are invited to come to the whole series or to only those sessions that interest you. No pre-registration is required, however an RSVP is appreciated. DATES: March: 22, 29

The seminar will be led by Raphael Colb, a veteran English teacher at Hebrew University and a 2010 graduate of the course for educators at the Yad Vashem International School for Holocaust Studies.
